

Table of contents

Introduction (Paulina Biały, Marcin Kuczok, Marcin Zabawa) . . . . .	7
--	---

Part I. The Place of Conceptualization in Languages

Chapter 1. The place of emotions. A contrastive analysis from the perspective of Embodied Semantics (Annalisa Baicchi) . . . . .	15
Chapter 2. English compounds created by particle/preposition fronting: Metaphor-metonymy interaction and iconicity of anomaly and axiology (Krzysztof Kosecki) . . . . .	30
Chapter 3. The place(s) of pain and its linguistic descriptions—the morphology and lexico-semantics of English pain descriptors: A cognitive linguistic perspective (Adam Palka) . . . . .	43
Chapter 4. The place of constructions (Konrad Szcześniak) . . . . .	82

Part II. Talking about Place(s)

Chapter 5. Case and prepositional systems in the expression of place in Russian, English, French and Spanish (Daniela Antonchuk) . . . . .	101
Chapter 6. The discursive representation of places significant for an individual: An analysis of Polish academic year inauguration speeches and American commencement addresses (Ewa Bogdanowska-Jakubowska) . . . . .	118

Part III. Place and Language Contact

Chapter 7. Place and extent of loan words in the Indonesian language (Ireneusz Kida) . . . . .	141
Chapter 8. At the confluence of languages—Language Transfer as a learning strategy (Aleksandra Serwotka & Anna Stwora) . . . . .	158