

Granny Gustava has always wanted to shine like the sun. She wished to be the only one - just like it. She always had to push her way around everywhere and speak loudly, because as a little girl Gucia already wasn't very charming; tiny and hunchbacked. Hence, perhaps the naughty behavior? For half the night she stayed awake and finally she came up with an idea. She would steal the sun! After all, a story like that had never been written before. Only how to get to it? Borrow a ladder from a chimney sweep and climb the sky? Just like that? In broad daylight? Of course everyone shall notice her. Perhaps at the day's end, but it is a long way to the other side of the sky.